Digby County Doctor
To Saint John

On the Saturday evening of January 14th, 1933, the Digby County Doctor, Dr. H. G. Dewar, arrived at the railway station, after a long journey from Saint John, New Brunswick. The Doctor had travelled by train from Saint John to Moncton, then by ferry to Saint John, and finally by train to Digby. The journey took several hours, but the Doctor was eager to be in his home community.

Dr. Dewar was greeted by Dr. W. F. Smith, the local medical officer, and Dr. J. H. Cummins, the town physician. The three doctors discussed the current state of health in the community and the need for better medical facilities.

The next day, the Doctor gave a lecture on the history of medicine and the developments in the medical field. His lecture was well attended and received a great deal of interest from the audience.

The Doctor then visited several households in the area, examining the patients and counseling them on their health issues. He also visited the local hospital, where he met with the staff and discussed the need for improvements.

In the evening, the Doctor attended a social event at the local community hall, where he enjoyed the company of his fellow doctors and community members. The event was a great success, and the Doctor was pleased to be able to interact with the people of his community.

On January 16th, the Doctor returned to Saint John, where he resumed his duties at the hospital.

Richardson Report on Islands

(COPENHAGEN)

In his report Mr. Richardson says that the present fishing industry is in a poor state, and the fisheries are suffering from a decrease in the number of herring. He also mentions that the herring industry is not making a profit.

It is necessary to pay more attention to the fishing industry in general, and especially to the herring industry, in order to ensure its continued development.

Baltic General Statement

Concerning the Technological Changes Involved in the Industry

The herring industry in the Baltic Sea is undergoing significant technological changes, which are expected to improve the efficiency of the fishing and processing processes.

The changes include the introduction of new technologies, such as satellite monitoring, which allow for more precise targeting of fishing efforts.

The changes also involve the use of new types of gear, such as satellite-equipped nets, which can be used to target specific areas and species.

In January 1950, a report by the International Institute of Fishery Research was published, which discussed the technological changes in the herring industry. The report highlighted the importance of technological innovation in ensuring the sustainability of the industry.

The report also emphasized the need for continued research and development, in order to keep pace with the technological changes and to ensure the long-term viability of the herring industry.

Temperance Note

Interesting story of women in Temperance.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

Who Says Temperance Is Dead?

Gone are the days when women were considered suffragettes and the world was a world of men. But the idea that temperance has totally died is a myth. In fact, the Temperance movement has continued to grow stronger over the years, with women playing a key role in the fight against alcoholism and drunkenness.

In a recent article, author Jane Smith writes about the impact of women on the Temperance movement.

"Women have always been at the forefront of the Temperance movement," she writes. "They have fought tirelessly for the rights of women to be treated equally and have worked to make the world a safer place for children and families."

Smith notes that women have been instrumental in the development of many of the key organizations and policies that have helped to reduce the impact of alcoholism on society.

"Women have been at the heart of the Temperance movement," she concludes. "They have fought for a better future for all, and their efforts have made a lasting impact on the world."

Why We Have Applied to The Nova Scotia Board of Commissioners of Public Utilities for Permission To Increase Our Rates For Telephone Service!

Our Present Rates are Basically Those Which Were Established in 1919

The job of the Telephone Company in Nova Scotia is to furnish telephone service as much of that service as Nova Scotia families and business concerns need and want.

In an effort to meet this obligation, since 1919, we have increased the value of our facilities by an expenditure of $18,000,000. As a result, we now have over 100,000 telephones in Nova Scotia, almost 600,000 of which have been added since 1919.

Expenses Have Increased Faster Than Revenues Have!

To be sure, our revenues have increased because of the greater number of telephone services in Nova Scotia, but our expenses have risen faster.

From 1919 to 1928, revenue went up 167%, but expenses increased by 223%. For the year 1929, those figures will be approximately 30% and 37%, respectively.

In other words, our operating expenses have increased far faster than our revenues. Last year, for example, our payroll was 34% higher than it was in 1928. Construction and maintenance costs have more than doubled, and at the end of the last year, operating costs for telephone service were substantially higher than two years before.

Our construction program for the years 1932 and 1933 for the expansion and improvement of the service anticipates an expenditure of $10,735,924 for building extensions, new equipment both present and dial, new toll and local lines, and cables at all sizes. This is capital expenditure and the money required for all this expenditure must come principally from the pockets of the people who are using in the telephone services. We must every minute of the day to first telephone service for residence subscribers, while basic business rates will increase from 5c to 7c per day.

(Queen of Battles)

Modern inventions have not taken away from the infantry its all-important part in victory. Again and again, in the battles of World War II and in Korea, infantry has proved itself — "Queen of Battles." The job of the infantryman has become tougher, more complex. He must be able to handle more weapons and to meet a greater variety of situations in defense and attack.

To obtain the special rank of Leading Infantryman and the extra pay that goes with it, the Army reserves in many varied subjects. For the Canadian Infantry Soldier is one of the foremost fighting men in our army. He fights on the "front lines" fighting men in the world.

How you can help to win the war — serve with the infantry — the most important men in the Canadian Army.

To enlist you must:

Volunteer to serve anywhere. Age 17 to 45 (Disabled 51).

ACTIVE FORCE NOW!

When you add it all up...

When you consider the men, women, and money needed to operate a bank—

you see what is involved in looking after the greatly increased demands made by both Canadians upon their chartered banks.

In ten years...with bigger staffs and higher pay, Canadians have jumped from $40 million a year to $145 million...interest paid to depositors has jumped from $25 million to $75 million a year.

And these are only three of many expense items. Yes, banking more than ever, costs money to run a bank.

It has again come to our attention that milk bottles are being used to hold kerosene and other such substances. Our customers have been advised that, according to law, milk bottles MUST NOT BE USED FOR OTHER PRODUCTS. WORLD SHOOKED BY KING'S DEATH

The death of George the Sixth, King of England, has devastated the world. His reign was marked by peace and stability, and his death will be felt deeply around the globe.

The free world holds with a deep sense of shock yesterday morning that King George the Sixth had passed away quietly at Sandringham at an early hour.

While everyone was aware the King was, had been, seriously ill, few were prepared for his sudden passing. The news received with shock and grief at the death of one beloved by all. The pall of gloom that descended upon the world could be seen reflected in the faces of young and old.

During the fifteen years of his reign, King George deomstrated most fully that he possessed a tremendous ability for the high office he held. Coming to the throne at a difficult time in the history of the world and Commonwealth, he was endorsed by his people and set them an example of devotion to duty unexcelled in history.

The people of England will recall fond memories of the King during his visit here. His and his gracious Queen's cordial relations to all during this visit and all who met them were impressed with the air of good will and red prose that he had never to exceed his Majesty.

During the dark days of the war, King George gave to the world a splendid example of quiet courage that did much to sustain the people of Britain and the Commonwealth in those grim years. His concern for his people, his visits to injured men, his refusal to leave London during the blitz were all natural reactions to a Sovereign whose devotion to duty for exceeded any thought of personal safety or well-being. Truly it can be said of King George that "he gave his life for his people."

"The King is dead — Long Live the Queen," was the proclamation that marked the death of our King. In the midst of our sorrow we — Sovereign's Professor — must repel that we have not suffered by a disaster, so that we have demonstrated that we possess many of the same qualities which ensured his father to the world. Our prayer is that we may be as brave, as unselfish for the world tragedies which were so much a part of his father's reign, and that he may remember the peace and the strength which will pass on him and their part in shortening his days.

The Cook and the Bull-Cook

By J. MURPHY

The cook was a tall, grey-haired, middle-aged man, who had been the family cook for many years. He was known for his delicious meals and was loved by all in the family.

Then one day, the owner of the family house decided to give a party. He wanted a new cook, someone who could prepare elegant meals.

The old cook was not interested in the new job, and the owner had to keep looking. Finally, he found a new cook, who was young and energetic. The owner was pleased with him.

However, the old cook was not happy with his replacement. He felt like he was no longer needed and decided to leave.

The new cook was happy with his job and was looking forward to the party. He wanted to impress the owner and prepared a special dish for the event.

The old cook, feeling left out, decided to come to the party to compete with the new cook. He prepared a dish that was so good, the owner was impressed.

In the end, the old cook was offered the job back, and the new cook was happy to accept. The family was pleased with the outcome and the party was a success.

By P. J. PHILLIP

It is hard to believe that man has yet to learn the value of cooperation. In the face of adversity, it is often the small group of dedicated members who will make the difference.

In this case, it was the V.O.N. (Village of Nova Scotia) that stepped up to the plate. They organized a relief effort, collecting funds and supplies to help those in need.

The group worked tirelessly, setting up temporary shelters and providing food and clothing to those affected. Their efforts were praised by the community, and they received recognition for their hard work.

Their success shows that with the right mindset and organization, anything is possible.

Secretaries Report

For 1951

Mr. President, Officers, Members of the Digby Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses for Canada—Dedicated to the care and comfort of the sick and the promotion of health in the community, we present our report for the year 1951.

We are privileged to make an announcement that the Lodge has reached its 50th anniversary. It was organized in 1901, and the first meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Emma L. Black on March 23, 1901. The first officers were Mrs. Ceslaw F. C. Black as President, Mrs. Robert B. Black as Secretary, and Mrs. William B. Black as Treasurer. The Lodge was registered with the Department of Health on June 23, 1901. The first Annual General Meeting was held on January 6, 1902, and the Officers for the ensuing year were Mrs. Ceslaw F. C. Black as President, Mrs. Robert B. Black as Secretary, and Mrs. William B. Black as Treasurer.

The Lodge has a long and illustrious history, and we are proud to say that it has been active and prosperous throughout its entire existence. The members have worked tirelessly to improve the health and welfare of the community, and have contributed generously to the advancement of the Order.

In recognition of the Lodge's 50th anniversary, the Lodge officers have prepared the following program:

- A special afternoon tea in recognition of the 50th anniversary.
- A dinner in the evening to celebrate the occasion.
- A special guest speaker to address the members on the history and achievements of the Lodge.

We are looking forward to a year of prosperity and growth for the Lodge, and we thank all members for their continued support and dedication.

Sincerely,

MARRIAGE

Yvonne - Pte.

On Saturday afternoon, Feb. 11, an interesting wedding took place in St. John's Church, Digby, N.S. Here, to the nuptial music of the organ of the church, and amid the smiles and joyous laughter of friends and relatives, Miss Jessie Margaret Archer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynden Archer, and Mr. Edward Francis MacKenzie of the same town, were united in holy matrimony by the Rev. Mr. Gordon, rector of St. John's. The ceremony was performed in the presence of a number of friends. The bride wore a wedding dress of white satin and a veil of fine lace, while her attendants were Miss Margaret MacEachern and Miss Margaret MacKinnon. The groom wore a black frock coat and trousers and a white shirt. The church was beautifully decorated with flowers and streamers. After the ceremony, the bridal couple left the church and proceeded to their home in the town. The reception was held in the Town Hall, where a wedding breakfast was served. In the evening, a wedding dance was held in the same building. The bride and groom have the best wishes of all their friends for a long and happy life together.

The Cook and the Bull-Cook

By JOSE NIERRELL

The layout now was quite different from what we had been used to. The new kitchen was well lit, with stainless steel appliances and a central island. There were three large ovens, each with its own hood. The stove had a professional-grade induction cooktop. The countertops were made of granite, and the cabinets were in a sleek, modern design. The bull-cow was huge, covering the entire kitchen area. It was a black and white cow, with large udders and a thick hide.

American Visitors

Despite the efforts of several American visitors to keep us in touch with the American visitors in Europe, almost everyone of them was in trouble concerning their return. One was the Harpooner, who had given up hope of ever getting back to the United States. The other was the Purple Hatter, who had been unable to find a place to stay in Europe. But they were both successful in their endeavors.
